Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-2, 4-9, 16-37 will be allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

The prior art references most closely resembling the applicants claimed invention are Takagi et al (U.S. 6,243,755), Dedrick (U.S. 5,696,965) and Neil et al (U.S. 6,199,077).

First, Takagi disclosed information caching, and the above quoted lines relate to a user's activity schedule. The specification of Takagi provides examples of activity schedules and explains that an activity schedule is something the user creates to describe what the user will be doing and what time and place he will be doing it. However Takagi failed to disclose "generating a predicted login time for each end user in the determined set of end users" (claim 1,20,29).

Second Dedrick disclosed compiling information about what content a user has viewed and particularly drawn to compiling information about what content a user has viewed and is particularly drawn to compiling content related to advertising. However Dedrick failed to disclose "generating a predicted login time for each end user in the determined set of end users" (claim 1,20,29).

Art Unit: 2145

Third Neil also failed to disclose "generating a predicted login time for each end user in the determined set of end users" (claim 1,20,29).

In summary, the Examiner submits that Takagi, Dedrick, nor Neil teaches all the limitations of independent claims in combination with other elements. Specifically prior art does not teach "generating a predicted login time for each end user in the determined set of end users"; therefore, claims 1-2, 4-9, 16-37 have been deemed allowable over the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
